

NORTHSIDE GHOST WALK

€13<sup>pp</sup>

On this walking tour we take you through one of the oldest parts of the city - the area once known as 'Oxmantown'. This former Viking enclave is steeped in a history awash with violence, sadness and poverty. Hear tell of the mummies of Saint Michan's Church, the old North side orphanage, and visit the site of a ruined Abbey, one of the most powerful monastic settlements in Ireland in medieval times. Oh, and do be careful who you step on as we pass through the deconsecrated graveyard. The gravestones may have moved, but the bodies haven't!

Meet the men and women who made it happen!

Travel back in time on our custom designed "Rise of the Rebels" tour bus, fitted out as an under siege base of revolutionary action.

Professional actors will guide you through the landmark locations in Ireland's rise for independence in Easter week 1916.

Using the testimonies of the battle survivors we bring to life the struggles that precipitated this call to fight for Ireland's freedom.

Giving voice to those who fought in garrisons around the centre of Dublin, our actors will testify on their behalf to the battles lost and won in the week of the revolution that changed Ireland forever as you walk through some of the key battle locations. We invite you to hear the testimony of people of the time, and see the places whose involvement, until now, has been hidden within the official histories told of this crucial week in Ireland's fight for independence.
